

There's an easy way to find out serialVersionUID of a class-

Suppose you have class in which you have forgotten to mention serialVersionUID-

```
import java.io.Serializable;

public class TestSerializable implements Serializable {

}
```

Just do this at the command prompt:

```
➤ serialver -classpath . TestSerializable
```

This prints-

```
static final long serialVersionUID = 5832063776451490808L;
```

serialver is a utility that comes along with JDK